

ABSTRACT

Methods and systems of controlling transport of film are disclosed. In one embodiment, a method of controlling a supply platter motor in a no-rewind film transport system, comprises receiving take-up platter control signal information from a take-up platter controller, processing
5 the take-up platter control signal information, and controlling the supply platter motor based at least in part on the processed take-up platter control signal information.